WORLD CONFERENCE LAUNCHED TO-DAY

TOKEN DEBT PAYMENT BY GREAT BRITAIN

Proposal Is For Small Sum to Be Sent to United States, Say Reports

Instalment Due On Thursday Next

Possibility of Lively Debate in United States Congress Is Seen

Canadian Press and Associated Press
London, June 12.—Great Britain is making a new move to-night, reported in government circles to involve a proposal of a small "token" payment to the United States toward the Thursday instalment, to bring the war debts discussion to a crisis.

The move follows the declaration of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at the opening of the World Economic Conference this afternoon that the war debts problem must be settled once and for all and without delay. An instalment totaling $75,950,000 will fall due Thursday.

Hitherto the "token" payment idea has not been broached in a formal note. A Washington official quoted in Whitehall affirmed, but it was understood that Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay mentioned it in the course of his discussion at the White House. The context of a British note which is being dispatched to-night, it was said, will be based on information received from the Ambassador as to its probable reception.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain is to make a statement on the debt in the Commons to-morrow. United States Congress.

Washington, June 12.—Washington observers saw the delay in adjournment of the United States Congress to-day as possibly interfering with the administration's plans regarding the war debt payments which will fall due Thursday.

With strong indications that Great Britain, Italy and others would present partial payments, the administration's financial experts had to figure out whether these could be accepted without compromising the United States' stand for full payment.

Should the decision be that the partial sums can be taken and Congress still be in session, there is every indication of a wholesale outburst from the powerful anti-cancellation wing, many of whose members already have been sharp-tongued about the Roosevelt foreign policy.

PLANE ON LONG TRIP NOT SIGHTED
Havana, June 12.—Capt. J. Errol Boyd, noted Toronto, Ont., aviator and his two companions, who left New York Sunday on a goodwill flight to Haiti, had not been sighted or reported along the route at 10 o'clock this afternoon, although they were expected to arrive at day-break or shortly thereafter.

The Pan-American Airways have ordered their ships and wireless station to be on the alert for sight or word of the fliers.

World Flier Sleeps in Siberian Town Before Attempting Hop to Nome

Between Alaska and New York Edmonton Only Scheduled Stop

By Stanley I. Richardson, Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Moscow, June 12.—Jimmie Matten tonight up on badly-needed sleep to-day at Khabarovsk, Siberia, while his plane was being prepared for the trans-pacific hop of his flight around the world.

So tired was the aviator when he landed at that east Siberian town at 3:20 a.m. Sunday (4:20 p.m. Saturday, Victoria time), after losing his way from Belgor, that he immediately went to sleep and gave officials no chance to ask about his plans.

No reports had been received up to noon here to-day as to the time for his take-off for Nome, Alaska, but it was learned heavy weather lay ahead of him on his way to the Kamchatka Peninsula northeast of Khabarovsk. From there, he planned to fly to Edmonton, Alberta, his last scheduled stop before reaching the United States.

BEHIND RECORD

On his arrival at Khabarovsk he was three days behind the pace set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in 1931, and had given up challenging their mark of 8 days 15 hours and 51 min. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

CAFE HOLDUP IN VANCOUVER

Armed Bandit Masked in Woman's Stocking Gets $600; Safe-crackers Injured

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 12.—An armed bandit, masked with a woman's silk stocking, escaped with $600 from the office of Scott's Cafe on Granville Street here at 10:15 a.m. to-day.

Harry Stamatis, proprietor, was alone in the office, situated above the cafe, preparing a deposit for the bank. Suddenly the office door was quietly swung open and the "silk-stocking bandit" walked in. In his hand was a revolver, which he pointed menacingly at Stamatis.

"Put up your hands!" he ordered. Under threat of the gun, Stamatis laid no alternative. He sat with his hands on the table.

Occupants of Sherwood Farm Make Escape From Burning Building in Nightclothes

Piano Only Saved From Famous Landmark Built at Metchoshin 70 Years Ago

Fire during the night completely destroyed Sherwood farm, historic Helgesen homestead on the William Head Road in the Metchoshin district, a landmark built seventy years ago.

The occupants had retired. About midnight they were suddenly awakened and escaped in their nightclothes from the burning building just in time.

At daybreak this morning the property, known as one of the most palatial farmhouses in the district, was a flattened-out, blackened, smoldering mass of ruins. The piano was carried to safety. Everything else was lost.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. The building and its contents were covered by insurance. Sleeping in the house at the time of the outbreak were Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Helgesen, their daughter, Nora, a niece, Lillian Helgesen, and Stanley Ball, a youth employed on the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Helgesen and the members of their family are temporarily staying at the nearby farm of their son, Charlie Helgesen.

U.S. DOLLAR IN LONDON LOSES

London, June 12.—The opening of the World Economic Conference was signaled by a slump of eight cents in the value of the United States dollar here to-day, but afterward the loss was reduced to four cents.

The market was quiet and sensitive and rates moved several cents at a time. The market is of the opinion that to-day's downward movement is a reflex to New York's action in bidding for sterling.

HOUSEWIFE HIT BY SUGAR TAX

Island Women Unable to Preserve Fruit For Winter Use; Protest Made

Fruit May Have to Rot on Trees This Year While Cupboards Go Bare

Special to The Times
Courtenay, June 12.—The present tax on sugar, a matter of greatest interest to every housewife and fruit-grower, was discussed at the regular meeting of the Comox District Women's Institute. A housewife of the district wrote asking if the institute could do anything to bring before the proper authorities a protest against the tax on sugar.

The writer pointed out that many housewives depended on their jams and preserved fruit to furnish their table during the winter, for which they utilized fruit in their gardens or bought from their neighbors.

BUMPER CROP
Nature promised a bumper crop, but at the present price of sugar it was probable the fruit would rot on the trees, while the housewives' cupboards went bare.

One of the members protested that the tax on sugar was a political matter and therefore out of the sphere of activity of the institute, which was specifically forbidden to introduce politics into its programme, but the opinion freely expressed by many of the members was that it was a household and a family problem.

After some discussion as to the proper channel through which to make a protest, the secretary was instructed to write to the Superintendent of Institutions in Victoria and enclose the letter, asking her for guidance in the matter.

Court Will Visit Doukhobor Island

Hearing Concludes Here and Counsel to Submit Written Argument

Hardly a Penitentiary, Says Witness Called By Crown Counsel

With an arrangement for Mr. Justice A. K. MacLean and court officials to visit the Doukhobor detention camp this afternoon, the Exchequer Court sitting on litigation of the lease value for Pier Island concluded its sitting in the courthouse this morning.

Counsel for both sides will submit their arguments in writing, it was decided. Lindley Crease, K.C., and Gordon Cameron appear for the crown and C. H. O'Halloran, and Robert Harvey for the Doukhobors.

There are three points to be settled in the case, the court pointed out: first, a fair lease value for the property; second, the value of wood cut to date, which he hoped counsel could settle amicably between them, and the possible damage to the value of Knap Island resulting from use of Pier Island as a penitentiary.

KING'S ADDRESS HEARD IN CITY

King George's address, opening the World Economic Conference in London, was plainly heard by radio listeners in Victoria this morning, as was Premier MacDonald's speech. The King started speaking about a minute after 8 a.m. His speech occupied less than ten minutes.

ANOTHER SPELL OF SUMMER

Lakes and Beaches Draws Crowds During Sunny Week-end

Victoria May Get Sample of Heat Wave Scorching Prairies

Victoria enjoyed another spell of real summer over the week-end and beaches and lakes about the city were crowded on Saturday and again yesterday as hundreds of persons donned bathing suits and started to acquire a sun tan.

Several more fine, warm days are ahead, according to a report issued this morning at the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill.

DRY IN INTERIOR
The interior of the province is experiencing much dry weather at present. There is a growing danger of forest fires and the rivers are rising rapidly and may overflow their banks if the present hot weather keeps up and melts the great masses of snow on the mountains. There is an abnormal amount of snow still on the mountains of the province, according to the weather report this morning.

Victorians returning to the city this morning reported over six feet of snow on Grouse Mountain, near Vancouver. There is a very great danger of the rivers overflowing and farmers in the interior are worried for their crops.

The maximum temperature on the top of Gonzales Hill yesterday was three degrees below zero. It was slightly warmer in the business district of the city.

EXCHANGE DOLLAR 90 1-2 CENTS TO-DAY

New York, June 12.—After advancing to new highs in the early trading, Canadian and British currencies turned reactionary on the New York foreign exchange market to-day.

The Canadian dollar opened at 92 cents, the highest quotation in more than eight months, but then slid back to 90 1/2, where it was down 1/4 of one per cent from Saturday.

The pound sterling fared better and closed at 84.15 1/2 for a net gain of 1/4 cent. It was well below its top of 84.17 1/2, however.

WORLD'S FAIR FLIERS CRASH

Nine Die at Chicago When Wing Crumples; Victims Burned Beyond Recognition

Disaster Witnessed By Hundreds of Motorists Out on Sunday Pleasure Trips

Associated Press
Chicago, June 12.—A huge twin-motored amphibian plane, the Northern Light, plunged 600 feet to earth yesterday, carrying to death nine persons, including seven holiday-bent visitors to the Chicago World's Fair.

Seven of the victims of the crash were men. Two were women. A sudden heavy wind crumpled one wing of the big ship, sending it plunging into a field near suburban Glenview. Flames from the gasoline supply which exploded, shot high into the air, driving back rescuers and burning victims beyond recognition.

The remains of six had been positively identified to-day. They were: Edward M. Fay, Chicago; Capt. Carl V. Vickery, thirty-six, pilot of the plane.

Miss Stephanie Ogorek, twenty, Chicago; Harry Jacobs, thirty, Vickery's mechanic of Chicago; and Mrs. E. C. Trainer, New York.

On cards found on other victims were the following names and addresses: Ida Goodwin, New York, and Mrs. E. C. Trainer, New York.

A pontoon and a wing of the plane apparently were damaged when Vickery, a veteran of the Great War and an experienced pilot, set the plane down on the choppy surface of Lake Michigan, just off the World's Fair grounds. He again took off and when nearing the airport the machine lurched. One wing crumpled and the plane plunged rapidly downward with its capacity load. The explosion followed immediately.

MANY SEE CRASH
The crash occurred in view of hundreds of motorists jamming the highways on holiday outings.

Bert Clavey, Glenview, and Mack Brewer, Wilmette, who witnessed it, said apparently the pilot made desperate efforts to land the ship. It came down at a very alarming angle, they said, but was enveloped by flames immediately. The engines were buried in the ground.

Only the skeleton of the fuselage remained after the fire. The right wing was bent back, indicating its collapse was the direct cause of the accident.

Major H. N. Woolfenden, a coroner's investigator, expressed belief the strut that supported the damaged pontoon broke in the air.

"I Appeal to All to Co-operate for Ultimate Good of World," Says Sovereign in Opening Great Economic Conference in London; "We Must Not Fail," Says Premier MacDonald, Addressing Conferees as Chairman; Canadian Delegate Will Sit as Member of Steering Committee

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, June 12.—The great World Economic Conference opened to-day on a note of determination to succeed. "In the face of a crisis which we all realize and acknowledge," urged King George in earnest tones, "I appeal to you all to co-operate for the sake of the ultimate good of the whole world. 'We must not fail,' echoed Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald a few minutes later. 'Men who succeed must face their work in the spirit of conquerors. We give to the world as the note of our first meeting that we are determined to succeed.'

"Nor can we delay," declared the Prime Minister. "Rapidly of agreement is essential to success. Let the world know we can show decision and give leadership."

The gathering of delegates from sixty-six nations was deeply attentive to the king, first in English, then in French, and again in English made his urgent appeal. It went simultaneously over a record-breaking hook-up to all corners of the earth.

FAMOUS MEN THERE
A moment or two before the King entered the hall had resembled a get-together of famous men.

A word from the interpreter and all delegates took their seats, then rose again for the King.

Except for His Majesty's earnest voice, the hall was silent; yet from the streets outside came repeated waves of cheering.

"I believe," said the King, "this is the first time in history that any sovereign has presided at the opening of a conference of all the nations of the world."

SPOKE IN FRENCH
"The world," he said in a short passage in French, "is in a disquieting state and for you gentlemen who to-day began the work of restoration the task is heavy. It will not be finished by the force of good will and sincere co-operation. Gentlemen, I offer you my hand and with all my heart I hope your efforts will end in that happy success which is awaited with impatience by the peoples of the world."

Before and after the King's and Premier MacDonald's addresses the Geological Museum in South Kensington, where the conferees met, clattered with economic theories in almost every imaginable tongue.

STEERING COMMITTEE

SISTER SHOT BY BROTHER

Eight-year-old Lad Accidentally Fires Gun as Sister Prepares Supper

While she was setting the fire for supper while her parents were absent from the house, Hope Cecilia Ashley, twelve years old, suddenly crumpled to the floor when her eight-year-old brother, Richard, picked up a .32 rifle, pointed it at her and fired, the bullet striking her in the right temple.

This was the story radioed to provincial police headquarters here this morning by Staff Sergeant J. A. Fraser of Kamloops, in reporting the tragedy at Rose Lake, thirty miles northeast of Seventy-mile House on Thursday last.

The shooting took place at 3:45 p.m. and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ashley, arrived shortly afterward, but the little girl succumbed at 11:30 o'clock Thursday evening. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

Official List of Economic Conference Delegates Reads Like "Who's Who" of Universe

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, June 12.—A gathering of famous men such as the world has scarcely seen before heard the well-chosen words in which King George to-day formally opened the great World Economic Conference here.

The official list of delegates reads like some "Who's who" of the universe. One president, eleven prime ministers, more than twenty foreign ministers and another score of finance ministers are among the representatives of sixty-six nations controlling the destinies of nearly 2,000,000,000 people.

One noted Paul Hymans, of Belgium, in laughing conversation with Premier Daalder of France, Austria's diminutive Chancellor Dollfus, near the rostrum, chatting with the German Ambassador to Great Britain. Familiarity of many international conferences wandered about the room, wearing old acquaintances. Behind, on either side of the hall, were scores and scores of newspapers from all quarters of the world. Through slatted screens peeped the lenses of talking-moving picture cameras, looking oddly like miniature machine guns.

In the G section sat Premier Bennett and Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, representing Canada.

Stabilization of Currencies Planned

British, U.S. and French Delegates Exchange Views Before Opening of London Economic Conference

By Melvin K. White, Staff Writer

London, June 12.—Stabilization of the major currencies within a wide range was forecast as the first definite accomplishment of the World Economic Conference. This was the expectation of high financial authorities close to the British delegation. These experts said that as a result of negotiations to-day at the Treasury among British, United States and French representatives it was agreed that stabilization could be arranged for the duration of the conference.

A wide range would be necessary, it was said, in order to conciliate opposing views.

The three-power banking session at the Treasury preceded the opening of the World Economic Conference, and was held with the utmost secrecy.

The French are most eager to get the pound sterling and the United States dollar stabilized, and it was understood they were willing to assist the efforts of London and Washington by placing of the disposal of the United States Federal Reserve Bank whatever sums in francs might be needed in order to keep the Paris market within a determined range.

Two safecrackers were seriously injured in an attempt to blow a safe in the office of the Moore Hall on Burrard Street at 4:10 a.m. to-day.

Residents in the vicinity were aroused by the sound of a heavy explosion, and hurrying to the street, saw two men staggering from the building with blood streaming from their heads and their clothing covered with plaster. They fled for a short distance and were picked up in an automobile and driven away.

Police were called and found a large quantity of explosive had been used in an attempt to open the safe, which was partly wrecked but the door not forced. The office was damaged by the explosion, plaster of the walls and windows being shattered.

World Conference Launched To-day

King George himself, in acknowledgment of the importance of the occasion, formally opened the first plenary session in the great new Geological Museum in Kensington. The fact that he was suffering from severe rheumatism which recently has compelled him to avoid public appearances.

The King's address was in effect a prayer for the success of the conference which has been called to bring aid to suffering humanity.

Mr. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's premier, Prime Minister, who is president of the conference, followed with an impassioned plea for cooperation and action, and dealt somewhat with the machinery of the conference.

IMPRESSIVE MOMENT
It was an impressive moment when the dignified figure of His Majesty appeared on the rostrum and he paused for a moment to survey this unique gathering of statesmen and experts representing every race, color and creed under the sun.

His Majesty had arrived amidst cheers from the vast crowd assembled in the street. He entered the assembly hall in the midst of absolute silence, which was the tribute of the conference delegates. He read his speech slowly and in sonorous tones. When he had concluded he took a seat and leaned forward in an expectant attitude while a League of Nations interpreter again read the speech in French.

After the translation the whole packed hall again stood and the King bowed slowly to the delegates, who bowed in turn. He then walked slowly down the steps, with Prime Minister MacDonald escorting him. In a few moments Mr. MacDonald returned and started his own address after receiving an ovation from the delegates.

RINGS GONG
As he took the stand the Prime Minister pushed a button which rang a big gong and called the World Monetary and Economic Conference into session.

He spoke in a buoyant, cheerful strain, and his address was a plea for the hall as the Prime Minister emphasized the points with which the conference must wrestle. He began his address with an expression of sympathy to the King and then turned to outline the deplorable condition into which the world economic situation exchange between town and country had been tragically limited.

INCOME FALLEN
"National income has fallen seriously everywhere—in some countries by 40 and 50 per cent. The general crisis, accentuated by restrictions by tariffs, quotas and exchange control, reduced international trade between 1929 and 1932 to less than three-quarters in volume, exchanging at about half price."

"The gold standard has had to be devalued more generally than has been the case in time of peace since the war was erected into the international measure of exchange. And inevitably, irrespective of fiscal policies and of forms of government, unemployment has mounted up until the world figures, issued by the International Labor Office, has reached 80,000,000."

"Behind the subjects I have just mentioned is another in the front rank of importance. It cannot be dealt with here because obviously this conference is not constituted in such a way as to enable it to consider and settle the world's economic problems."

MUST BE SETTLED
He declared, however, that the debt problem "must be dealt with before every obstacle to general recovery has been removed. Lausanne had to be completed and this year's conference must be completed and for all in the light of present world conditions."

(At the Lausanne conference Germany virtually withdrew, virtually eliminated by the European recipients, who thereupon made a "gentlemen's agreement" that their action would not be effective unless the United States should correspondingly scale down the war debts.)

The air of informality continued as the Prime Minister spoke. Non-English delegates whispered among themselves while other delegates made notes on the address.

At the conclusion of Mr. MacDonald's speech the conference adjourned to the Conference Hall, London, June 12.—Following is the text of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's speech to-day at the opening of the World Economic Conference:

"On behalf of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom I offer you a most hearty welcome to London. I hope your stay here will be pleasant, above everything else profitable in results, and that when you leave you will have carved the name of the London Economic Conference amongst those great international gatherings which have brought blessings to mankind."

"The purpose of our meeting is of the greatest importance. Sixty-seven governments have been invited, who are not members of the League, and the importance attached to our purpose is recognized by the fact that practically every government invited has accepted the invitation."

"There is greater authority gathered in this hall to-day than has perhaps ever been brought under one name in the world's history."

SLOWED DOWN
The economic life of the world has for years been suffering from a decline which has closed factories, limited employment, reduced standards of living, brought some states to the verge of bankruptcy and inflicted on others recurring budgets that cannot be balanced. The machinery of international commerce on which the vigor of the human life of the world and the prosperity of the nations depend, has been steadily slowed up."

"The markets are there, the labor to supply them is there, but the labor is not employed and the markets are not filled. When we consider the equipment for the making of wealth our national incomes were greater. All the machinery of prosperity is there, but it is slowing down. It is not working."

The briefest reference to the astounding facts will show the magnitude of the problems before us and at the same time direct our thoughts to the point of attack.

"Since 1929 prices have fallen and have kept well below the levels at which production can be remunerative. They have fallen irregularly, moreover, and have distorted the normal relationship on which economic activity is pivoted. The fall in prices has added oppressively to the burden of the world's indebtedness. In 1932, compared with 1929, production of raw materials had fallen 20 per cent and

NO LOSS OF TIME
"I think I express the wishes of the great body of delegates when I say we have not come to discuss mere economic theories and generalities, but to make practical proposals to meet urgent necessities. I should therefore invite each delegation to submit its proposals in terms that are definite so that we may enter without loss of time into an examination of what can be translated into action, and begin deliberations on what each of us can do in co-operation with the others either for the emergency or for more permanent purposes."

"Let this London conference put new heart and new confidence into the world and let it mark the end of the years of uncertainties and of policies which have brought this distress upon us all."

"Let us see to it that before we disperse we shall have revived hope and energy and opportunity. For those the world waits, and it is in our power to provide them."

ALL WISH SUCCESS
"I am sure we are all aware of heavy responsibilities which are upon us and that we have met determined to make the conference a success. The fate of generations may well depend upon the courage, sincerity and width of view which we are to show during the next few weeks."

"The experts have reminded us: 'It will not be in our judgment be possible to make substantial progress by piecemeal measures; a policy of nibbling will not solve this crisis.'"

"Have we come to deliberate and to decide as though our respective nations were isolated units in the world? Then we shall fail and the world which looks upon us to-day with expectations will have to drain a bitter cup of disappointment."

"Have we come knowing that the permanent good of each is dependent on the permanent good of all, and determined to co-operate in coming to agreements which will make a renewal of prosperity possible? Then we shall succeed and expectations of the world will be justified."

WITH FRESH MINDS
"We must not fail. Our programme is intricate and takes subjects upon which we hold the most divergent and unresolving views. The needs of the day are so pressing, the experiences of these years have been so alluminating and so tragic, that surely we must approach our work with fresh and flexible minds."

"The facts of our time have answered many of the stiffest theories and dogmas of the past. Statesmanship to-day will be judged by what it does."

CEAN FLIERS LAND AT CUBA

Associated Press
Camaguey, Cuba, June 12.—Successful non-stop flight, Captain Mariano Barberan and Lieutenant Juan Collar, Spanish army fliers, landed at this mid-island city yesterday afternoon at 1:35 o'clock, E.S.T., in Seville.

Because of unfavorable weather conditions to the west the two aviators turned back when they had hoped to reach Havana before their plane, a Vientos, descended on its nose.

But after their long air trip, which they said had been under the most favorable auspices, the two fliers were "off" to the Camaguey Colonia sanatoria centre by throngs of shouting islanders resident here, who flocked to the airport immediately after their patriots' landing.

The fliers passed over Camaguey and landed for the capital before landing, turned back when treacherous undercurrents showed up in their rear.

DIKE DYNAMITED

Portland, Ore., June 12 (Associated Press).—Rise of the Columbia and Yamette rivers Sunday forced dynamiting of a dike east of Vancouver, B.C., to save the main line tracks of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway, and caused many farmers to leave their homes along the banks of the two rivers. Melting snow in the mountains and heavy rains are responsible for the rise.

FIRE CAUSES INFANT'S DEATH

In Lotbiniere County, Ontario, 100 Families Are Homeless

Canadian Press
Quebec, June 12.—Death of a sixteen-month-old child, Claire Lachet, as a result of burns suffered when a fire swept the Val Alain section of Lotbiniere County was announced yesterday evening shortly after it had become known the blaze was definitely under control.

Rain, coming as much needed relief after days of torrid heat, helped the fire-fighters battle the blaze under control. About 100 families were homeless in Lotbiniere County to-day, their homes having been destroyed by the fire which for a time menaced the villages of Val Alain, Joly and Riviere Henri.

Woman Telephoned Paper; Ended Life

Associated Press
New York, June 12.—A young woman jumped to her death from a hotel in the theatrical district here Sunday ten minutes after she had telephoned a newspaper office and asked: "Do you want a story about a suicide?"

Then she calmly dictated: "Mrs. Arthur F. Roy committed suicide to-day. After taking thirty-six tablets of poison, she leaped to her death from her room on the eighteenth floor."

Without waiting for any comment, she hung up.

The body fell seventeen stories and landed on a second-floor extension in a court.

CONFERENCE SEEKS REMEDY FOR SLUMP OF WORLD'S TRADE

Delegates in London Faced By Intricate Problems As World's Jobless Are Listed at 30,000,000

London, June 12.—The task of the World Economic Conference, opened here to-day, is to rescue a distressed world from the greatest slump it has ever known. Thirty million workers are unemployed. More shipping is rusting in port than was sunk during the Great War. Scarcely a national budget balances. Government has vied with government in high and higher tariffs. More than forty countries have exchange restrictions limiting purchases of their nationals abroad. International trade has fallen more since 1929 than it had ever fallen before.

The task of the conference is to set the wheels of trade revolving again. It will consider currencies, prices, establishment of a new international gold standard, removal of exchange restrictions and general lowering of tariffs. Over the nature of the main problem to be solved—there is little difference of opinion among the various delegations. The difficulties will come when the remedies are proposed. Sellers are many and buyers few.

NAZIS STOP HIGH MASS

Menacing Storm Troopers in Munich Keep People From Cardinal's Ceremony

Government Dissolves Convention After Delegates Are Assaulted

Associated Press
Munich, Germany, June 12.—Menacing Storm Troopers prevented Cardinal Faulhaber from holding solemn high mass yesterday in connection with the Catholic Journeymen's convention here after severe clashes Saturday evening between Nazis and Roman Catholics.

As a result of the disturbances, the government put a premature end to the meetings, which were supposed to continue and terminate yesterday.

Railway stations of Munich were packed with thousands of persons yesterday, including many delegates making a hurried exit from the city. It was reliably reported leading members of the congress had been assaulted by Storm Troopers who tore badges off the delegates and beat them up, even in the trams.

Herr Theo Baldi, leader of the Swiss delegation, had his badge ripped off, then was taken to a police station, but he was released later. He lodged a protest with the Bavarian government and the Swiss counsel is pursuing the matter.

According to eye-witnesses, Roman Catholic priests were not immune from attack, and it was reported several hundred uniformed Nazis appeared at a hotel yesterday evening where Catholic apprentices were staying and dragged them out of bed. Two of the Catholics were sent to a hospital.

The official version of the affair attributes the disorder to a provocative attitude by attendees at the convention and their wearing of orange colored shirts, considered by the Nazis to be a by-play on the brown shirt.

Cardinal Faulhaber's mass was to have been held in the huge exhibition hall, but when delegates appeared the Storm Troopers had already blocked the entrances.

The convention had originally been prohibited by the Bavarian Government, but was eventually permitted to meet because rumors of a possible strike by the workers of the Reich, was scheduled to speak before it. The worst clashes occurred after Cardinal Faulhaber's address, "Unity in the Spirit of the Nation," in which he attacked liberalism and democracy.

Storm Troopers held a huge triumphal march through the streets yesterday morning "as a spontaneous reply" to Saturday evening's disturbances, according to the police version.

The clashes marked the first grave street conflict between Roman Catholics and Nazis since the last election campaign, when many Catholic candidates were attacked and their meetings dissolved.

Gold Standard Move Reported

European Bloc Wants British-U.S. Action as London Conference Begins

Canadian Press and Associated Press
London, June 12.—A continental European bloc to force Great Britain and the United States to return to the gold standard is being organized yesterday evening on the eve of the opening of the World Economic Conference.

Six other countries were ready to march behind the French leadership to get the pound and the United States dollar stabilized and oppose discussions of tariffs, high prices, silver and trade agreements which the world's two principal currencies were given a fixed value in gold.

The spokesmen of Germany, Italy, Poland, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and France were reported as agreed that stabilization is essential before the London meeting can usefully proceed to deliberations on other subjects.

NO BAIL FOR PETER VERIGIN

Habeas Corpus Hearing in Winnipeg To-morrow For Doukhobor Leader

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, June 12.—Appearing before Mr. Justice R. A. Robson in court here to-day, Peter Verigin, Doukhobor leader, whose deportation has been ordered by the Department of Immigration, was refused bail and remained in custody until to-morrow, when the hearing will be continued.

Application for a writ of habeas corpus was only partially heard to-day when Commissioner of Immigration and C. E. S. Smith produced the community leader in court in answer to a summons issued by Mr. Justice Robson last Saturday.

Following his arrest last Friday on a warrant issued by the Deputy Minister of Immigration and his subsequently being ordered deported, Verigin's lawyers filed an appeal against deportation with Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration.

The outcome is pending.

Verigin's deportation to Russia last January was prevented by a decision of Mr. Justice Humphrey Mellish of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court. The chief justice had been released from the Prince Albert, Sask., jail after serving nine months of an eighteen-month term for perjury.

PARIS TO IMPORT

Warsaw, June 12.—The Polish Government yesterday prohibited importation until October 10 of a series of products from South Africa, Australia, United States and Argentina, such as oil, steel, wool, tannin, chemicals, raw animal fat, solid fats, linen and cloth and shoe leather.

Special permits for importation will be issued on the basis of compensatory trade. The prohibition will be effective until the new Polish customs tariff is fixed on October 10 next.

FRENCH MOVE

Paris, June 12.—On the eve of the London Economic Conference, the French government has introduced two bills in the Chamber of Deputies asking for special tariff and surtax powers.

It is presumed the measures are designed to arm the French delegation with broad powers "to meet measures of foreign countries or exceptional and temporary measures of the League of Nations for dollar depreciation, since the government is already empowered to levy a surtax on United States goods."

JEW ORGANIZE IN DOMINION

Canadian Press
Toronto, June 12.—A mass meeting yesterday evening drew a two-day conference of Jews from all over Canada, drawn together by a common desire to combat anti-Semitism in Germany.

As a means of furthering their plans it was decided to revive the defunct Canadian Jewish Congress, and to launch a campaign to gather funds for the relief of German Jews, a permanent Dominion relief committee to be formed for that purpose.

The conference also went on record as opposing the granting of letters of incorporation to the Nazi Party of Montreal, application for which has already been made to the Quebec government.

H. M. Calerman of Montreal, secretary of the first Jewish Congress, formed in 1919, was chosen national secretary of the provisional executive. The first session of the congress will take place in Montreal, October 22.

SUDDEN DEATH TOLL IN EAST

Nearly Score Die in Ontario and Quebec Over Week-end From Weather and Accidents

Canadian Press
Toronto, June 12.—Storm, heat, highway accidents and suicide brought death to seventeen persons in Ontario and Quebec yesterday, eight in Quebec and nine in Ontario. The majority of the fatalities were drownings.

Five persons were drowned in Quebec yesterday. Three were drowned in the St. Lawrence, when swimmers beyond their depth. Their companions died trying to rescue them. A youth and a four-year-old girl were drowned at Sheik's Island, Ont., near Cornwall. The child was trapped in an automobile which plunged down an embankment into fifteen feet of water.

A student plane pilot, John W. Kendall, was killed here on a brief but furious wind storm caught his plane and broke it in the air as he tried to land. He fell about 1,000 feet.

The same storm endangered many in the Toronto district. Life savers along the waterfront made thirty-two rescues in twenty minutes as persons caught on Lake Ontario in canoes and small boats were swept out by the offshore gale. Some damage was done in the city, but no casualties were reported.

The storm swept the western part of southern Ontario, causing many boating accidents, but all victims were rescued.

Two men, one in Quebec and one in Ontario, died of heart failure while attending church services.

RESCUED BY DOG

A police dog at Elora, Ont., rescued two girls from drowning after they had become unconscious. The dog swam out into the Grand River, towed the girls to shore and attracted passersby to the scene by his barking.

Considerable damage was done communication lines north of Goderich, Ont., by wind. Large trees were blown down across highways and many points were cut off from telephone or telegraphic touch with the outside.

The dead:
John W. Kendall, twenty, Ontario, plane crash.
John Schell, thirty-eight, West Fair, Ont., drowned.
Adrian Blais, nineteen, Cornwall, Ont., drowned.
Jennie Crowder, four, drowned.
Norman Taylor, twenty-two, Delaware, Ont., drowned.

Court Will Visit Doukhobor Island

Differing viewpoints on the effect which occupation by Doukhobors would have upon the island were offered at the hearing to-day.

James Forman described the Doukhobors as a docile, people, who could hardly be classed as criminals.

"A better term than penitentiary would be detention home," he said. "While these people have offended our laws, they are hardly criminals."

"I think the view is a sound one," said Mr. Justice MacLean. While the term penitentiary has been applied to the island, I don't think it fits the case exactly.

C. E. Yarwood, real estate salesman, who said he had experience with Doukhobors at Yorkton, Saskatchewan, said he thought the only annoyance they might cause to neighbors was disturbing, and since they were under detention this was not likely.

"You know that there are three different divisions of Doukhobors?" asked Mr. O'Halloran.

"Well, I've heard so?" witness replied.

Well, these are the Sons of Freedom, who have abandoned the Doukhobor tenets," said Mr. O'Halloran. "This is hardly necessary to the case," interposed the court.

When the crown concluded, Robert Harvey, son of the late J. S. Harvey, and one of the defence counsel, was called as a witness in rebuttal. He lived on the island from 1908 to 1911 and described various features of the property. With regard to the value of the property, he said he had declared it at $25,000 when Cardinal Paulineau the trustee in 1928. Eventually he checked up on this and found it listed at $35,000, so secured the services of a valuator and since 1930 it had been listed at $50,000.

Mr. Justice MacLean commented that in expropriation cases it was possible to obtain real estate valuations who would fix the prices in the interests of both sides, suitable to the party employing them.

TREES CUT

The final witness was Col. Cooper, the warden, who testified that seventy-five trees had been cut on the property to date for firewood. Ten or a dozen were big trees, about the same number were old snags and the rest were of little value for lumber purposes but suitable for firewood.

Views Differ

Crown witnesses at the hearing placed the value of Pier Island as low as $15,000, compared with the $50,000 valuation suggested by witnesses for the other side.

P. B. Pemberton testified at some length on this question, declaring it was hardly practicable to sub-divide the island, which should be owned entirely by one, or possibly two, families. There were a limited number of people who preferred an island to themselves.

Arthur Wolfenden appraised the property at about $15,000. James Forman was of similar opinion and thought a rental of $75 or $100 a month would not be too little.

J. T. Muirhead of the Land Registry Office gave the sworn valuations of some Gulf Islands, including Portland Island, at $29,000. H. W. Hall placed Pier Island's value at $14,000, suggesting 5 per cent on this figure as a good rental.

COURSE OF CIVILIZATION AS WELL AS TRADE AT STAKE

Tens of billions of dollars in world trade are the immediate stake at the World Economic Conference which the King opened in London today. But also at stake there in the decisions to be made during the next few weeks, is the very course of western civilization itself. Is that course to be forward—to the intelligent restoration of an orderly economic world, international harmony and an increase in the general welfare of its peoples? Or, is it to be turned to drift back into the isolation, the poverty and darkness of another Middle Ages?

The conference will express itself on the fundamental problem through its discussions and decisions on three immediate problems. These have been set out broadly as follows:

1. CURRENCY STABILIZATION—Depreciation of national currencies in terms of those of other countries have led to a welter of tariff increases and new restrictions on trade. World markets for the great commodities have been contracted and prices have been broken down. To-day the world has only about a third of the international trade of 1929. To change this trend it is necessary to get currencies stabilized with relation to each other. The tendency of fluctuating currencies always is to reduce trade. The nations favor a general return to the gold standard, but differ as to when and under what conditions.

2. TRADE BARRIERS—Everyone agrees that these must be considered in connection with the exchange situation. Leaving trade barriers intact would keep world commerce confused. The trade barriers include raised tariffs, new quota restrictions on goods, and exchange control systems in various countries which often make it a question whether a shipper from another country will be paid for his goods. (Britain has held she could not stabilize the pound sterling unless she had normal outlets for her products. The United States policy is set out as one of reciprocal trade agreements.)

3. PRICES—Plans of any one country to raise prices through inflation can be no part of an international co-operative arrangement unless world prices are also raised. If internal prices in any one country are pushed up without reference to what the rest of the world does and thus get out of line with prices in other countries, that country can hardly expect to sell in foreign markets. So, it is proposed, as in the interest especially of the large mercantile nations, that it is best to embark on a general price-raising policy.

Optimists count on the seriousness of the world economic situation to compel statesmen to call a halt on the present trend towards national isolation and intensified commercial warfare with their resultant disappearance of trade and threats to peace. A breathing spell in the form of a truce to give the nations time to determine where they are at, without danger meanwhile of slipping further into the economic whirlpool, is the least that peoples, who believe western civilization is worth while and should continue, have a right to expect from the conference.

MR. STEVENS DOES NOT CHOOSE TO CHANGE

Whatever foundation there was for the report that Hon. H. H. Stevens, Dominion Minister of Trade and Commerce, was ready to enter the provincial field with a bid for the leadership of the Conservative party has now been removed by the Minister himself. He told the members of the executive of the provincial body on Saturday that he had not given any consideration to the idea of abandoning federal for purely British Columbia politics.

There will be no disposition to quibble about the plain statement of Mr. Stevens. The relations between himself and Premier Bennett may be somewhat strained as the result of the Prime Minister's choice of Mr. Rhodes as his chief companion to the World Economic Conference in London. But Mr. Stevens is an astute politician and well qualified to read the signs of the political times—especially in British Columbia. As Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Dominion Government, he is called upon to deal with matters of national and international importance; he is constantly in touch with the larger issues of public life. To exchange an important national portfolio for a chance in a provincial Premiership gamble—especially in British Columbia at this stage—would indeed be political folly with a vengeance.

It is to be remembered also that there is every prospect Mr. Stevens will remain in his present position for perhaps another couple of years, although his political fate may be a little uncertain after that period has expired. And even supposing that Dr. Tolmie were prepared to give in to those of his colleagues and the Conservative rank and file who are not anything like as loyal to him as they ought to be, and throw up the Premiership, Mr. Stevens knows full well that neither his nor any other leadership would be able to save the present government from defeat at the forthcoming election. Naturally the Minister of Trade and Commerce recognizes the force of the old maxim that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

Mr. Stevens attended Saturday's gathering of the Conservative Association executive merely in an advisory capacity and when he was asked what he thought of the present position of Conservatism in British Columbia he replied in terms which obviously were not intended as complimentary to the progress of the unionist government proposal, a proposal which, of course, has split the party. He put it this way: "A division in any party inevitably works towards a confusion of issues, and it would be highly desirable if those in the country, of Conservative views, would unite under one leader, leading a united party. I believe, further, that the Conservative party as such can serve the interests of the province most effectively, and regret exceedingly that there is any division of those forces."

In more precise language, Mr. Stevens amplified the foregoing observations with the simple truth: "A union which does not unite can not be very effective. If there was a possibility of coalescing all forces in the general interests of the country I would think it would possibly be desirable, but if it fails to do that there is no reason for union." Good manners, of course, deterred him from passing an opinion as to whether he thought the "union government" had failed to achieve union.

Back of the welter of conflicting reports and rumors of dissension in government ranks and among Conservatives throughout the province generally, to say nothing of the resignation of ministers and suggestions that more portfolios will be surrendered, is the evidence that those who were the most insistent at the Kamloops convention in 1926 that Dr. Tolmie take the leadership of the party and restore its fortunes—those who have reaped the greatest benefits under the Premiership of Dr. Tolmie—are now equally insistent that he be displaced because the party's defeat at the election is practically a foregone conclusion. That element can not escape its share of the responsibility for demanding policies the prosecution of which has made the Premier's position very difficult. It is not for us to advise Dr. Tolmie; but we can commend him for not knocking down to the deserts.

AND SOME HAD FEARED WE MIGHT NEVER COME OUT

Evidences locally of business revival at an accelerating pace receive confirmation in the continent-wide statistics and business reports from such authoritative commercial agencies as Dun and Bradstreet.

Continued industrial expansion with "commodities forging ahead into new high ground, providing motivation to distributive totals surging to record proportions" are recorded for the current period. This forward swing is found to rest on the definite upward trend in consumption, employment and wage levels. The importance and significance of this, the analysts discover, are not yet fully realized as "the transition has been so rapid in its successive promulgations."

For business interests the advice is offered that the course for continued trade progress has been cleared, "as more of the extraneous influences, which retarded the pace for a time, have been rendered impotent by the well-fortified ramifications to which the improvement has been extended."

Wholesalers are reported experiencing a rush to fill orders for goods which retailers need badly. Orders being placed for autumn delivery are reaching unbroken proportions. In the retail trade, department stores chronicle a volume fully ten per cent ahead of the 1932 comparative level and with continued gains in prospect. In many instances, purchases made earlier in the season and considered ample have been cleared as wider employment and more frequent wage increases add to purchasing power and multiply consumptive possibilities. The steady increase in grain prices and revival of activity in basic industries are playing a fundamental part in brightening the outlook of all branches of industrial and commercial activity, with factories adding to the number of their employees and office staffs enlarged.

And it was much less than a year ago, in the darkest days of the depression, some of us were being consumed with fears that we would never come out of it at all!

Writing in The Vancouver Daily Province, Mr. George Murray gives us Mr. Atkinson's reasons for resigning as Minister of Agriculture in the Tolmie government, why he threw up a salary of $7,500 a year and the control over an annual budget of $500,000. This part of the former Minister's explanation tells a good deal: "My health was going rapidly. I was not trained for the work. I did not like the political atmosphere. I could not do favors for hordes of persons who were always nagging me and asking for things I couldn't conscientiously do for them. I am not a politician. I have found that out. I will never run for Parliament again."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

"THE FRIENDS OF MONOPOLY"
 The Winnipeg Free Press

The advocates of the monopoly clause of the new shipping bill are acting in accordance with the all but universally accepted theory that the concern of government should be more for the welfare of the agencies by which trade is carried on than of trade itself in its primary manifestations. The promoters of this bill are interested in making it possible for the shipping companies on the lakes to operate at a profit; and not at all or very little in the trade interests which supply the freight for the ships—which in this case are very largely centred in the growing and shipping of grain.

ZIONISM IN DANGER
 William Zukerman in Fortnightly Review

Zionist leaders who only a short while ago were rubbing their hands gleefully at the sight of the rush of private capital into Palestine have now been obliged themselves to raise their voices against the new peril and to "launch a severe fight against the operations of the speculators and brokers forcing up the prices of citrus land and groves." The very purpose of Zionism is at present in danger of being defeated. Palestine threatens to become a sort of foreign colony for Jewish capital, and the National Home for the Jewish people, a home for Jewish investment and speculation—very different thing indeed from the dream of Dr. Herzl and of the other idealists of that great folk movement.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

The drums beat—the legions march—the old myth goes on but is gradually wearing away—we lack the old-fashioned staff of life—and the little boy next door is caught in the perpetration of a foul crime.

SOUNDS OF WAR

ALL OVER British Columbia these days you can hear the solemn beating of the war drums of the coming election, the lusty chanting of the war horses, the heroic snuff of baby kissing. It is very inspiring and makes your blood run hot or cold, according to your temperament and party. Yet I hear from many voters who imagine themselves intelligent that there are too many professional politicians in the field, too many men who have run before. The intelligence of the voters who complain this is not very high. It is a good thing that the next Legislature will contain a good sprinkling of experienced men, for though the voters never seem to realize it, politics is a skilled trade. You can't learn it in one election campaign or one session. Sir John A. Macdonald used to say that a Member of Parliament required the first four years of office to learn how to hang his hat properly in the cloak room.

It is a skilled trade, and the men who are most successful outside of it are often the biggest flops inside. The chief illusion of the voters is that because a man has been a success in business he should also be a success in politics. Why a man should learn to run a country, and care for the welfare of its people by running a business, which is concerned with nothing but its own welfare, I cannot imagine. Probably it is the worst training possible, as certain examples from Hoover downwards into more familiar spheres have demonstrated of late years.

In business a man quite properly is out to take the other fellow's business, to make personal profits, to compete with every legal means in his power. Government is just the opposite. In this modern age it has become largely the protection of the whole people from the various difficulties and hardships which arise out of the competitive system. The Government of the United States, at the moment the most intelligent in the world, is doing little else but curb the activities of business and reverse the usual procedure in order to save the country from collapse. Under a high-class business man it was on the brink of chaos. Under a professional politician, advised by professional economists and secretly deplored by many big business men, the country is beginning to pull through.

Down there in the United States they are getting over the myth, still prevalent here, that a man can run a country because he has run a dry goods store, a logging camp or a dairy farm. They are beginning to realize that the running of a country is the most complicated profession in the world, more delicate than engineering, more subtle than medicine, more difficult than any other occupation. But I judge that the electors of British Columbia will choose their representatives not by any such measurements but by their personal likes and dislikes, for the most part. They will vote for the best fellow, and, fortunately, among them will be some who know what they are doing.

POLITICAL SENSE

SPEAKING of government and politics—a subject which I deeply deplore and seldom mention—I think a good argument could be made for the proposition that Canada has less political sense than any country in the world. Indeed, we have always glided in this country in our freedom from politics, and our ignorance of it. We have rather scorned it. The term politician has smelled rather badly in our nostrils, and the great majority of the people belong to no party at all. When they vote it is without expectation of much good, and usually a quarter of them don't even bother to go to the polls. Politics and government have been a thing apart from our lives, a kind of necessary evil which should be kept out of business, out of our lives as much as possible. We have gloried in the fact that the country forged ahead while the politicians argued away about things that didn't matter.

The result is that among the civilized nations, we are the most stupidly governed on the globe. I do not say this with particular reference to present governments, but having in mind the economic policies of the country, which, for the most part, have been warmly commended by the people; because the people had no political sense. In every other civilized country parliamentarians have been struggling with efforts to end the depression, to rebuild their economies to meet modern conditions. The United States, having at last thrown out the do-nothing Republic policy, is revising the whole structure of government from the ground up. Its Congress has been at grips with realities. But what has our Parliament done in the last four years? Can you name a single thing of importance it did at its last session while the world about was on fire? I confess I can't. It would think it was the most pathetic Parliament extant.

But it is not Parliament's fault; the fault is ours. We didn't elect it to do anything worth while. We never thought about such things when we elected it. We were still in the era when the place of government was in the background out of the way of practical men; and our conceptions of economics went no farther than an increase in the tariff. Now, alas, we find everywhere in the world that the solution of the crisis is coming through government and through nothing else, and we are not prepared for it. The Canadian people are beginning to learn. Their ideas are years ahead of the idea of Parliament and the government, but Parliament and the government—without reference to either party—are the relic of another era. Since 1930 we have been through a Revolution. They have realized it in Washington but not in Ottawa.

BREAD

AND ANOTHER thing of importance in this country, as I said the other day, but we lack bread. You can't get home-made bread any more. You can get bread made at home—ah, yes, but it is not home-made bread. It is nothing like the bread we used to get in the old days before civilization flourished in this land. Mark you, I speak not in ignorance but as one who has studied this subject carefully and eaten widely. I have questioned a dozen bread makers of the old school, women whose bread was a life work, who took an artist's pride in it, whose steaming loaves fresh from the oven, would sustain the body and raise the spirits to sublime heights. They all admit that their careers as bread makers are over, that you cannot make home-made bread of the old style with modern flour. The flour is too good, too refined, they say, and, besides, you can only get the last exquisite touch of flavor into bread on a wood fire, another thing which is fast disappearing from our system. It is not the fault of the flour makers and the builders of electrical stoves. The public wants its bread just as it is. It is well satisfied, because the public is getting civilized, too. But a few of us know that a great and glorious thing has gone out of our lives.

FOUL CRIME

SPEAKING of hunger, they have just solved a strange mystery next door. West door, as I may have mentioned, lives Tim, the latest addition to that long line of dogs which have been universally ill-bred and ill-fated. Tim is really only half a dog, so thin that if you breathe too heavily in his presence he will keep over, and you can't fill him with food. You can feed him all day and still he will ask for more and get thinner and thinner. But by a strange paradox, his best friend, the little boy next door, never seems to have any appetite lately at meal times. It took the people next door some time to connect these two opposite phenomena, but they have at last.

Skilled detective work on the part of the little girl next door—she hid in the wood box after dinner and watched when Tim was fed his nightly dog biscuits—unraveled the mystery. What she saw was extremely harrowing. Stealthily, looking about to see that he was not observed, the little boy next door crawled under the table where Tim was dining, rudely thrust the poor animal away and started to gnaw the dog biscuits himself. And when he was captured and hurried off to bed he managed to secrete a piece of dog biscuit in his little fist—and was discovered when he contentedly in his bed. They have told him next door that if he eats dog biscuits any more he may turn into a dog, to which he replied callously: "Dog, bow, wow."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELS

HEAVEN
 As a little child I seemed
 Heaven was very far away,
 Golden sunbeams I dreamed,
 Sweet with angel choirs and bright
 White wings stirring day and night,
 But a strange and distant place!

Now I know that I was wrong,
 For I know where I belong,
 Of that heaven, sweet with song,
 I know that I can claim
 Heaven in my outstretched hand,
 All its peace at my command,
 Not one shadow of a fear,
 Ah, what blessed bliss to feel
 Heaven is so very near!

TWENTY CENTS FOR EIGHT HOURS

To the Editor:—On behalf of the ex-servicemen that are being forced into semi-military camps to work eight hours for twenty cents, may we through the columns of your valuable paper add our protest to previous correspondents?

We ask ourselves why it is that in a world whose capacity to produce is continually increasing, we should be required to submit to such reductions in our standards of living?

It is being continually advanced by economists and legislators to the south that the only solution of the crisis is to increase wages and reduce hours. To support this we see the American Government actually bounting the farmers to curtail acreage, and even to destroy crops.

PREMIUM, DEFLATION AND INFLATION

To the Editor:—With deflated productivity and labor operating at a loss, its monetary system as a representative becoming its master, at a premium there remained but one alternative: monetary inflation, not as a cure but as palliative, to bring about readjustment and normalcy. This was, in our case, as a debtor nation, most essential. England, as a creditor nation, with frozen assets, inflated her sterling, instituted a flexible tariff system for reciprocal measures, not exploitation, short of a trade alliance with other members of the Empire, then followed this up by like arrangements with other nations, to bring about a trade parity as an objective and exchange reduced to a minimum.

Let us endeavor to view our position, condition and governmental inadequacy. The Conservative Party with a large majority was elected with Mr. Bennett as premier and one can almost imagine a coterie from James Smith as an ex-officio advisory board. The first step was the raising of our tariff, not for revenue or protection, but for exploitation, the Hon. R. B. Bennett to the contrary.

Even to aid the tobacco trust and beer barons, a levy was placed on home brew and hand-rolled cigarettes. At an S.O.S. call from the powers that be, as to the menace to the C.P.R. by our own railroad, measures were instituted to relieve this state of affairs, short of wrecking the empire, they well knew would have meant political suicide. A small matter of a loan with interest of $1,500,000 to the C.P.R. for replacements, the interest to be carried on business affairs, of which we have to pay and also interest and principal for replacements on our own railroad, was merely an evidence of their allegiance. The reorganization of the Beaulieu water project with the accent on the water, to some of the favored, has a very undesirable odor. A hue and cry arose as to a shortage of our monetary issue to carry on business affairs.

The government nobly responded, they loaned the banks $35,000,000 at three per cent, borrowed $35,000,000 back from the banks at four per cent, a small profit of $350,000 a year to the banks. This in no sense relieved the situation, if any existed. But under our banking laws, under a 40 to 80 ratio, the banks with this $35,000,000 borrowed from the government, could issue $87,500,000, but this would seem unnecessary with no fortified liquid loans visible. A little bird wanted a note of the intent of Ottawa to place a two per cent import on sugar. Some incendiary financier, stole this ludicrous morsel from the window sill and flew out into the "sticks" to enjoy it. Did the little bird also want a note about a large conversion loan, or was it prearranged? How nice and handy the issue of $87,500,000 at four per cent would be augmenting the $350,000 a year by a further amount of $3,500,000 per year, and all at the expense of printing the issue and giving it a current value—a study in unflinching inflation.

The House of Morgan and the National of Wall Street are certainly some financiers but they have no edge on our businessmen of James Street. In fact our business minds are more aristocratic in their manipulations, they, by could issue $87,500,000, but this legalize their operations; that is, so some of them.

Purchasing Power Must Be Restored, Says B.C. Liberal Leader

Review of B.C. Finances Given By John Hart at Shawnigan

Emphasis on the fact that purchasing power must be placed in the hands of the people was laid by T. D. Pattullo, British Columbia Liberal Leader, during the enthusiastic meeting held in the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association Hall on Friday evening.

Mr. Pattullo advocated the creation of a national economic council consisting of experts, non-partisan and co-operating with the government. State health insurance, unemployment insurance, hours of labor and similar matters, would properly be considered through the medium of this council. While speaking of taxation Mr. Pattullo remarked that taxes had been placed on so many things recently that the air alone was left free to tax. He said that he would be a revision of the 1 per cent wage tax with the object of relieving the small wage earner when the Liberal Party was returned to power.

John Hart, Liberal candidate in Victoria, referred to the last loan of $4,000,000 made by this province. Certain financial houses were asked to sell these bonds, with special consideration granted them, as against the interests of other dealers and of the public in general. Although these bonds yielded the purchaser 6 1/2 per cent, four months was required to market them. So greatly has the credit of the province been damaged, that a financial house in New York is now offering B.C. bonds, expiring next year, at a price to yield the purchaser 10 per cent and was offering double the ordinary commission to dealers to dispose of them.

In spite of an estimated surplus, last year had shown a deficit of $7,000,000, said Mr. Hart. It was clear that the original estimates must have been known to carry a false impression at the time they were prepared. The Minister of Finance preached economy and practiced it in the smaller things such as stopping the payment of bounties on cougars and yet he agreed to a rebate of $1,500,000, largely to his own constituents, said the speaker, referring to recent rebates to irrigation districts.

C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, Liberal candidate in Esquimalt, congratulated the newly-formed Shawnigan Lake Liberal Association upon the success of its first public meeting. He dwelt with the platform of the Liberal Party, adopted at its convention in Vancouver in October last. Particularly was he pleased with that plank which provided for the freedom of members in the Legislature, by which a Liberal member will be free to vote as his conscience dictated upon any measure advanced.

Major S. F. M. Moodie, Liberal organizer for British Columbia, briefly discussed the political situation.

CONSERVATIVES MARKING TIME

British Columbia Association Will Not March Into Provincial Fray

Plea For Convention to Clear Air Falls on Deaf Ears

As a result of decisions of the executive of the British Columbia Conservative Association at the all-day session at the Empress Hotel Saturday the association will take virtually no part in the British Columbia general election which is expected to be held in September.

As announced Saturday, it was decided no convention of the party will be held in British Columbia. Talk of Hon. H. H. Stevens stepping in to unite the warring factions in the province by assuming the leadership was ended by the minister's frank declaration that he had no intention of deserting the federal field.

Counting of the questionnaires sent out to associations regarding the holding of a convention showed seventy-five per cent. of them were opposed. It was decided local associations should be free to act as they pleased regarding the provincial election.

Many differences of opinion on provincial affairs were expressed. Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Executive, came out vigorously in favor of union government proposals and secured those who had grown lukewarm to a plan that once advocated. Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, defended the government and reiterated his support of union government ideals. R. Haywood, M.P.P. Victoria, advocated a convention to clear the air. Federal organization was discussed. Mr. Stevens gave a talk on problems of the Ottawa Government and how they were being met.

Those taking part were: Misses Phyllis McIntosh, Dorothy Boughton and Jerry Kent and William S. L. McPherson, Warwick Rayson, Leonard Dixon and John Medley were the actors, and Jack Aylwin directed.

Former Victoria Girl Weds Vancouver Man

Beautiful Ceremony Saturday
United Miss Jean Thomas and Philip T. Rogers

Reception at "Shannon" Followed Church Service;
Lovely Gowns Worn

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 12.—Only relatives and immediate family friends had been hidden to witness the marriage ceremony at which Jean Eleanor, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thomas, of this city, and former prominent resident of Victoria, became the bride of Philip T. Rogers, third son of the late Mr. Benjamin Tingley Rogers and Mrs. B. T. Rogers, "Shannon."

LOVELY FLOWERS
St. John's Anglican Church on Nanaimo Avenue, has yet to be decorated in more artistic floral array for a nuptial event, or "Shannon" to be the wedding reception given by Mrs. Rogers. The flowers at both church and residence were beautiful beyond description.

Setting a soft glow on the entire scene was the light from the tall cathedral tapers in high branched candelabra.

Hanging baskets, trailing festoons of white and pink snapdragons were suspended from the beamed rafters over the chancel, while roses banked the altar and tall standards held hydrangea blooms. White ribbons in the wall-pockets, and bouquets of snapdragons, iris and daisies were placed with silver tissue ribbon and placed at the aisle-ends of guest pews.

A carpet of rose velvet had been laid from the street to the church threshold, and here, before entering, was given the keynote of the coloring motif prevailing within by the pink, blue and white flowers massed in large urns at the entrance to the edifice.

THE ATTENDANTS
First to pass were Mary Josephine and Patricia Rogers, small daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rogers, and little Janie Cherniavsky, Mr. and Mrs. Jan Cherniavsky's daughter. The bridesmaids, Miss Gwyneth Thomas and Miss Margaret Rogers, sisters of the bride and groom, respectively, preceded the maid of honor, Miss Peggy Thomas, and then came the radiant bride, on the arm of her father.

Awaiting them at the chancel steps was the groom with his best man, Mr. Pat Burns, and with them Canon Harold King, who read the marriage service, and Archbishop de Pencier, who pronounced the blessing and benediction. Acting as ushers were Mr. Alan Robertson, Mr. Robert Bourne or New Westminster, Mr. Reginald Clark and Mr. Brian Moran.

LOVELY BRIDE
The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding attire was a youthful bride should wear, not the sophistication of satin but the naive of gossamer silk marquisette; pure white, combined with a scintillating head embroidered jacket of unusual cut. Alover patterned in silvered crystal bugles and seed pearls, the short coatee, which opened at the back, was linked to a narrow headed girle by a beaded strap suspended from the neck. One at the back. The sleeves of the jacket, revealing in front, the white, while the diaphanous fullness, touched the heels of white sandals.

The "something old" worn by the bride was the heirloom veil of embroidered net that had belonged to the groom's grandmother. Superimposed over a cloud of tulle illustration that swept to great lengths to form a train, the veil was arranged as a bonnet, revealing in front, the white, while the diaphanous fullness, touched the heels of white sandals.

Mothers Arrange
Surprise Party
To C.G.I.T. Girls

A joint meeting of the Hollywood Canadian Girls in Training groups was held on Friday evening at the home of Phyllis Baylis, president. At the close of the business period, the girls were greatly surprised by the arrival of their mothers who had arranged a novel surprise party for them. After introductions and a singing of a few lively songs and a contest were participated in. The winners of the contest were Mrs. Marriott and Joyce Marriott, Mrs. Baylis and Phyllis Baylis.

At 10:30 twenty-nine mothers and daughters sat down to a delightful supper. Miss Winnie Urquhart, leader, expressed the appreciation of the girls for one of the most successful events of the year, and Mrs. Baylis spoke on behalf of the mothers. The singing of "Gods" brought to a close an evening long to be remembered in the life of the Hollywood C.G.I.T.

On Saturday evening, June 17, at 8 o'clock a concert will be given in Hollywood Sunday school hall, 1110 Government St., under the auspices of the C.G.I.T. A splendid programme has been arranged and will include numbers by the pupils of Miss Olive Campbell, A.C.G.I.T. L. Mus., and a musical play entitled "Thirty Minutes for Refreshments," to be presented by the Young People's Society of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church. The proceeds of the concert will be used to assist the girls going to the C.G.I.T. summer camp.

Colwood

Over one hundred and fifty patrons attended the old time Scotch dance Friday evening in Colwood Hall and held under the auspices of the Colwood Burns Club. The proceeds of the dance will increase the fund being raised by the Colwood Hall committee for the purpose of laying a new floor in the hall. Alex Allan acted as master of ceremonies, and Pipe Major Wihart with his bagpipes supplied the music for the grand march.

A good programme of music was supplied by Funder's three-piece orchestra. Refreshments were served. The monthly meeting of the women's auxiliary to St. John's Church will be held in Colwood Hall Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Members of the Junior W.A. will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the home of the superintendent, Mrs. C. Carnegie.

A CHARMING ENGLISH ACTRESS

Dorothy Boucher, one of England's most charming movie stars, commenced acting at the age of six when she took the part of a turquoise at a children's concert party. Since that time she has played the lead in many films, one of her latest being "Karnival," in which she plays opposite Matheson Lang and Joseph Schildkraut. Our picture shows Dorothy Boucher as she appeared in "The King's Cup."

Annual Garden Fete
Of Guides Is Success

Over 400 Guides and Brownies in Delightful Programme Saturday

March Past in Beautiful "Gonzales" Estate Followed By Other Events

Encouraged by the brilliant weather conditions, many guests gathered on Saturday afternoon to enjoy the annual garden fete of the Girl Guides of Victoria and district, held at the old Gonzales estate, St. Charles Street, placed at the disposal of the local association by Mrs. D. Atkins. The scene was most picturesque when the opening ceremony took place and 270 Girl Guides advancing in companies and carrying their colors took part in the march past.

In addition 150 Brownies, natty and alert, formed a cordon to enclose the spacious lawn as the guides' cheering by the main gates proceeded across the lawn to the point where, under a large maple tree, Mrs. H. R. Gale divisional commissioner, stood to take the salute, attended by Miss Hilda Leighton, provincial camp adviser and staff captain, and Mrs. G. Watts, vice-president of the local association.

GRAND HOWL

Generous applause marked the onlookers' appreciation of the smart appearance and deportment of the guides as they marched back to the gate by way of the winding driveway. After the Grand Howl and salute were given by the Brownies and acknowledged by Mrs. Gale, Brownies of the east district performed a very pretty singing march, followed by a lively singing game by Brownies of the west district.

An interval then occurred that guests might partake of the dainty afternoon tea served by the ladies of the local association in the large hall. Mrs. Stewart Williams, with the assistance of guides as waitresses.

CHAMPION DANCERS

On the resumption of the programme a team of country dancers from the First Victoria Ranger Company, champions in the recent musical festivals in Victoria and Vancouver, met with well deserved applause as they gave in faultless style "Jenny Pluck Pears" "Grimstock" and "Newcastle." Interesting folk dances were also demonstrated by guides of Third Victoria East Company, who gave "Bellingers Round" and "Peasecod."

A graceful display of skipping was given by Second West Guides. Joan of Arc Company contributed an intricate fancy march, a well staged display of stunts and acrobatics. The Ranger Company and Fourth West Company gave an ambitious series of pyramids. Brownies of Victoria West district put on an exciting team, "Froggies Fire Drill," the winning team. Equilibrium pack also playing a game, "The Salute," in which the Brownie salute and handshake are featured.

CAMP-FIRE SONGS

At the camp-fire, in which all companies took part, many favorite old songs were sung, among them "Trees," "The Keeper," while guide "taps" made a fitting conclusion to a happy and successful afternoon.

The guides had shown much ingenuity in the matter of shows and stalls for raising funds and these met with a generous response. St. Margaret's Company had turned the large summer house into a kitchen, and there over an open fire, prepared popped corn. Cheese dreams, as cooked by Lady Douglas Company, were another popular dish. Home cooking was well patronized. The Ranger Company, Joan of Arc, Edith Cavell, Lady Douglas, St. George's and Esculapian companies all found a ready sale for their cakes and other dainties provided on their stalls.

ATTRACTIVE STALLS

Colquitz company dealt in garden plants, and other stalls offered fancy needlework and knitted garments and fancy novelties. Most of the Brownie packs specialized in candies. Four Bay Pack adding attractive bird houses and dressed dolls. Gonzales Company was represented by a lady with a thousand pockets and a gypsy, who was in charge of a magic cauldron.

House-house, ninepins, putting competition and a coconut shy, at which the prizes were surprisingly were cantaloupes among the attractions. Pony rides, for which Capt. Carley kindly provided the pony, were a great joy to the small people.

MACDONALD-MOORE

At a pretty house-wedding at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Howell, 1118 Chestnut Avenue, on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, Rev. G. A. Reynolds united in marriage Rasha Georgia, only daughter of Mrs. Jean Macdonald, and Mr. Percy Macdonald, son of Mr. Arthur James Moore, of H.M.C.S. Skeena, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Moore of Edmonton.

The ceremony took place in the drawing-room under a large white bell tent and pink, before a background of pink and white tulle, in the presence of relatives and friends. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a frock of white organdy, with a ruffled skirt and a long veil, and carried a bouquet of pink roses, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern. Her bridesmaid was her cousin, Miss Evelyn Macdonald, in a period gown of mauve organdy, who held a sheaf of pink and white carnations. Mr. Harry H. Macdonald, of H.M.C.S. Skeena, brother of the bride, supported the groom. During the signing of the register, Mr. John Russell sang "O Promise Me." Supper was served from a table decorated with early summer flowers and pink candles. The three-tiered cake was cut by the bride with the groom's knife, and a toast was proposed by Mr. B. Howell. Mr. and Mrs. Moore will make their home at 190 Menzies Street.

Pas-a-Pas Club
Hears Mrs. McClung

The Pas-a-Pas Service Club of the First United Church met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, 2581 Beach Drive, Miss Margaret Thompson, president, presided. Mrs. Alice McKillop gave a short talk entitled, "What Does Christ Mean to Me?" Mrs. Nellie McClung, well known Canadian writer, gave a most inspiring address on the far-reaching influence of young women. "Everyone should have some sort of religion," said Mrs. McKillop, "and a definite purpose in life." She also believes that women should take a keen interest in world affairs.

Mrs. Alice McKillop is leaving for Pennsylvania in the near future, where she will reside indefinitely. She has been leader of the Pas-a-Pas group for a number of years, and her whole-hearted interest and able leadership will be greatly missed by all. Mrs. McKillop was presented by the club with a handsome black leather purse as a token of its appreciation and affection. At Mrs. McKillop's request Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, the honorary president, will lead the Pas-a-Pas Club in its future work.

"The Sealed Trunk"

By HENRY KITCHELL WEBSTER

Had Claire's invitation to lunch been anything but a trick to insure her absence from the studio while it was being broken into? It wouldn't have been necessary to do that, and Claire probably knew it. Max Lewis knew it, anyhow, for Babe had told him the night he brought her home that she and Rhoda worked all day at the News, and that Doris and Isabel were off on a tour with their ballet. No, Claire had asked her to lunch in order to find out something.

What could she have found out? Not much, certainly. Rhoda was sure she hadn't told anything important. Wait a minute, though! She had said that none of her father's papers had been destroyed. There was a whole trunk full of them, she said, and she had sealed up the trunk. In other words, she'd volunteered the fact—fool! Silly, babbling fool!—that a sealed-up trunk was the thing to look for.

But had she said that it was in the studio? She couldn't remember having said that in so many words, but she must have admitted it by inference, since Claire had suggested coming home with her and helping in the search for the paper she wanted. Had Claire expected her to accept an offer like that? Probably not very seriously, but she might have regarded it as a chance worth taking. Anyhow, it hadn't been until after Rhoda had declined this offer—giving away her own suspicion, no doubt, that she had telephoned to, waiting at a telephone somewhere for Claire's instructions.

His attempt yesterday to find the papers they wanted had been unsuccessful, because he hadn't known what to look for. So he'd taken her three hundred dollars instead. Did Claire know that? She wondered. That might be worth thinking about later, but she hadn't time to think it out now. Max had tried again to-day, with better information, remembering, likely enough, just where he'd seen the sealed-up trunk the day before, and had succeeded without any trouble at all. It had just happened, within the past hour, thanks to her own plain imbecility in giving everything away. She hated to think of the thought of Martin what had happened, even while she was washing her face at her elbow now telling her what to do. Well, couldn't she think of anything to do anything to herself? Was she going to sit down and let the pair of crooks get away with it? They were probably up at Claire's flat now gloating over their booty, grinning about how easy it was.

She wouldn't call the police. She couldn't do that, with the story of her father's disgrace involved in the matter, and they'd time to think of anything to do anything to herself? Was she going to sit down and let the pair of crooks get away with it? They were probably up at Claire's flat now gloating over their booty, grinning about how easy it was.

"Now I Feel Full of Pep"

That's what women say after they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It tones up the whole system—quiets quivering nerves—gives them the extra energy they need—makes trying times endurable. Read these letters.

"I have more pep since I took your Vegetable Compound. It has regulated me and decreased the pain. Backaches are practically gone. I sleep better and my nerves are improved. A friend of mine is taking it now."—SALLY BROWN, Box 352, Dundas, Ontario.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as the directions say. I am getting back my strength. My nerves are better. I eat well and have more pep."—MRS. WALSLEY MARKOWSKY, Rose, Saskatchewanan.

"Every month I suffered and I was nervous and weak. I bought one bottle of your Vegetable Compound and got relief right away. I feel much stronger now. I am better able to do my housework and I am not so nervous."—Miss H. SCHUMLAND, Fenwood, Saskatchewan.

Uncle Wiggily's Popgun

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy tiptoed into the dining-room where Uncle Wiggily was finishing his breakfast. The muskrat lady housekeeper did not want to make any noise, for Mr. Longears was reading the morning paper. He heard Nurse Jane, however, and, twinkling his pink nose at her friendly like and jolly, asked:

"Did you want anything, Janie? I mean, if you haven't had your breakfast, sit down here with me and have some."

"Oh, I have eaten, thank you," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But I would like something, if you don't mind."

"What?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Some elderberries," answered Nurse Jane. "I think you may find some ripe now, and if you would pick a pail full for me I would make you an elderberry pie."

"It shall be done!" cried Uncle Wiggily, hopping up from the table and tiptoeing a knee to Nurse Jane from the tip of his paw. "I'll skip out, pick some elderberries, and perhaps I can have an adventure."

"Well, don't have an adventure with the bad Chaps," begged the muskrat lady housekeeper, smiling and looking at her tail. "They might take the elderberries away from you and then you would have no pie."

"Like the three little kittens who lost their mittens," said Uncle Wiggily, with a laugh.

He was ready to shoot

"That's it," squeaked Nurse Jane. "So be careful."

"I'll be careful," promised Uncle Wiggily, and just then his wife came in to see if he wanted any more breakfast and she asked:

"What are you two talking about?"

"Elderberries," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I'm going to make him a pie," spoke Nurse Jane.

"Oh, that will be fine!" said Mrs. Longears. "Hop along, Wiggily!"

So Uncle Wiggily hopped along over the fields and through the woods and, after a while, not so very long, he reached a clump of bushes where some clusters of purple berries were growing. "Hat! The elderberries are out early this year," said Uncle Wiggily; and this was true. "What a lot of them!"

Indeed, the bush was laden with the broad, flat clusters of the purple berries and it did not take the rabbit gentleman long to fill the tin pail he had brought with him.

"I shall have a fine pie," he said, as he set down to rest on a grass bank near the elderberry bush. Then, as the rabbit gentleman sat there, he began to think how as a little boy he used to gather elderberries for his mother.

"And I used to gather the blossoms before the berries came," said Uncle Wiggily, sort of talking to himself. "Mother used to dry the blossoms and make elderberry tea, though what it was good for I don't remember."

As he sat looking at the elderberry bush he remembered something else he had done when he was a boy rabbit.

"I used to make popguns of a stalk of elderberry bush," said Uncle Wiggily. "What fun I used to have with those popguns! I wonder if I could make one now?"

He took out his knife, cut an elderberry bush stalk about as large around as his thumb and trimmed it, peeling off the bark. Inside the stalk was a filling of white stuff called pith. It was soft and could easily be pushed out with a thin stick.

When Uncle Wiggily had done this he had a hollow elderberry stalk just like a popgun.

"Next I need a plunger or a stick to push into the hollow tube to make the cork pop out. Then I'll have a popgun," said the rabbit.

He cut another stick which he whittled very carefully until it fitted snug and tight into the hollow elder stalk. When this stick was moved up and down it made a hissing sound because of the air that was drawn in and pushed out of the tube.

"Now, all I need is a cork to close one end of my gun," said Uncle Wiggily. "Then, when I stick the cork in, pull back on the stick and suddenly push it out, will shoot the cork and I'll have my popgun," thought the rabbit gentleman.

He found a cork in his pocket, stuck it in one end of the hollow elderberry stalk and was ready to shoot his new popgun, when all of a sudden, he heard a noise in the bushes.

"I wonder what that is?" murmured Mr. Longears. And what it was and what happened, which was quite funny, I'll tell you about to-morrow night. Then the story will be called Uncle Wiggily and Billie's mistake.

And I hope the condensed milk will put on its rubbers when it goes out to water the garden flowers.

Johnny Goodman Will Not Join Ranks of the Professionals

THE Newly-crowned U.S. Sports Open Champ Desires MIRROR Somerville's Crown

Jimmy Gilhula is latest human fish to enter swimming world.

California youth shatters records of Weissmuller and Crabbe.

England will put on British Empire Games in great style.

A TWENTY-YEAR-OLD college freshman to-day stands alone as the greatest 440-yard freestyle swimmer on the North American continent. He is a human fish who has shown greater speed than Johnny Weissmuller, Buster Crabbe and Arne Borg. His name is Jimmy Raymond Gilhula. In the same pool where the Olympic Games swimming events were held last year at Los Angeles, Jimmy recently shattered the aquatic world by shattering two of the United States records held by Weissmuller and Crabbe, each an Olympic champion.

Jimmy started his record-smashing excursion by paddling 500 yards in 5 minutes 45.3 seconds. That shaved 2.3 seconds from Weissmuller's U.S. record set in Honolulu June 22, 1922. For nearly eleven years the mark had resisted all challenges, but Gilhula cracked it with consummate ease, leaving part of the way for the lack of competition.

Not satisfied, Jimmy came back and took the 500 metres in 6 minutes 19.1 seconds. This amazing record shaved 21.3 seconds from Crabbe's U.S. mark, established in Honolulu July 16, 1931. Jimmy admits that it pleased him more to knock Crabbe's record to smithereens than to shatter the old Weissmuller mark. There is a reason.

Gilhula made the American Olympic team last summer when he finished a close second to Crabbe in the final 400-metre tryouts. Lack of experience lost a place for Jimmy after he survived his heat and the semi-finals. Crabbe went on to win the Olympic title and immediately deserted the swim-pure ranks to become a "lion man" in the movies, running in competition with Weissmuller's activities as Tarzan, and Helene Madison's as an actress.

Jimmy cannot gain revenge on Crabbe by actual competition, since Buster is giving him no attention to his dramatic career. But Gilhula can erase Buster's name from the record books. And he is doing it. Gilhula's fastest 440 is 4 minutes 61 seconds, which is the present Canadian national record, made in the Dominion a year ago when he elapsed 4.2 seconds from Walter Spence's old mark.

Jimmy first received national recognition as a student at South-eastern high school, Detroit, when he was named on the All-American swimming team in three divisions. His best marks were 83.6 seconds in the 100, 2 minutes 19.2 seconds in the 200 and 5 minutes 7.2 seconds in the 440. He also holds the American 700-yard record of 8 minutes 18.8 seconds. Gilhula will return east this summer to represent the United States A.A.U. California in the American 700-yard championships. He will be the heavy favorite to win the 440.

Someone has called his unusual shimmy-shaking form the water the Gilhula-hula, naturally.

With South Africa out of the running owing to the political and social situation it has been decided that the first games since the outbreak of the war will be staged in England, and they will probably commence in the White City Stadium in August. The Olympic organization is in charge of the events, including the Emperor of the Derby, chairman, Lieut.-Col. Sir James Leith-Wood, treasurer, E. J. Holt, and secretary, E. A. Hunter.

Writing in United Empire, Vernon E. Morgan praises the Hamilton officials for the first games, and then goes on to say that the English federation will make every effort to even out the remarkable showing made at the Canadian city. Some of Mr. Morgan's comment follows:

"It is intended that the programme should include all the sports which are popular with men and women, including boxing, cycling, and wrestling for men only. By the courtesy of the Amateur Athletic Association, it is hoped that the track and field events will be held at the White City Stadium, where the Olympic Games were held in 1908. The venues for the other sports are not yet been decided, but it is probable that the swimming and cycling events will be held in some other part of England, thereby spreading the interest in the games.

"England, therefore, is to have the great honor of staging the second Empire Games, the success of which this immense project is in the right hands, more capable men could not be found, and those athletes and officials who have the good fortune to come from overseas will be welcomed heartily. They can rest assured that everything possible will be done to insure their complete comfort and enjoyment.

Youthful Nebraskan Hopes to Return American Amateur Title Across Border

PRO JOB WOULD RETURN $25,000

Has Eyes Set on Walker Cup Team Berth in 1934; Sarazen Finishes Twenty-sixth

Chicago, June 12.—Sensational amateur winner of the United States open golf crown, young Johnny Goodman, Omaha, had told the world to-day he is not going to turn professional for at least two big reasons.

The twenty-three-year-old Nebraskan who clinched the open title with a keen display Saturday could easily cash in on a pro job that would bring him around $25,000 a year.

But his two big objectives are to bring back from Canada the American amateur title Sandy Somerville took to London, Ont., last year, and earn a place in the U.S. Walker Cup team in 1934.

Slim Johnny compiled rounds of 75-66-70-76 to turn back a classic field of pros and amateurs over the Glenview course last week.

SARAZEN TWENTY-SIXTH

Champion at twenty-three and getting better, the Nebraska insurance agent is along the aggressive type of swarthy Gene Sarazen, who never figured in the defence of his open crown and wound up Saturday in a tie for twenty-sixth place, sixteen strokes behind the back-horse winner.

There was no fluke about Goodman's victory at the North Shore Club Saturday, although he was fortunate to save the margin of a single stroke in the last round against the dramatic closing rush of Ralph Guldahl, twenty-one-year-old pro from St. Louis.

Who strokes behind with only fifteen holes to go, Guldahl pulled up to even terms with Goodman. Only a missed four-foot putt on the last green robbed him of a tie with the winner.

The task of representing Canada on his able shoulders, Jimmie Johnstone, Toronto, carded steady enough rounds of 76-77-71-76, but finished outside of the money-winning group.

Tommy Armour, Chicago, finished fourth with 292, tied by Walter Hagen's great final round of 68, which included a penalty stroke and distance for driving out of bounds. They were just behind Craig Wood, Des Moines, who was third man with 290.

BALL TEAMS BREAK EVEN

Tillicums Win and Lose in Exhibition Games Against Tacoma Squad

Saturday's exhibition baseball games at the Athletic Park saw the Tillicums, of the local Senior Amateur League, again an even break with the Ace Furniture club from Tacoma. The visitors took the afternoon fixture 8 to 5 and the Tillicums won the nod in the evening performance 6 to 5. The Tillicums were strengthened by the addition of several players from the three other local clubs.

A costly error by Harry Dunn, Tillicums' catcher, allowing three runs to score in the seventh inning, cost the locals the afternoon engagement. The teams were deadlocked at the time coming in, working in great style, and the chances for a local victory looked good until Dunn's blunder.

Tacoma got away to a lead in the first inning, when two hits, a walk and a passed ball allowed three runners to cross the plate. Victoria got coming, but off this with a score in the third.

In the last half of the third Victoria put on a rally and deadlocked the count 4 to 4. The next two innings were scoreless, and then Tacoma got their three unearned runs in the seventh to win. Victoria rallied with one run in their half of the seventh while Tacoma added one more in the eighth.

Mugrave allowed five hits, while he struck out nine and walked three. The class for preparatory boys was won by Ken Campbell, with P. Mutton, second; and Hiberson and Winslow tied for third place.

Jack Nash Finishes Tied For Honors In Challenge Cup Golf

Canadian Star and T. A. Torrance Score 147's in Play at Deal, England

LAY-OFF OVER HOYLAKE COURSE

Prince of Wales Trophy to the Winner; Ross Somerville Finishes With 154

Deal, Kent, Eng., June 12.—Jack Nash, London, Ont., golfer, who will take part in the British Amateur championship later this month, and T. A. Torrance, British international, tied yesterday for the Prince of Wales challenge cup at 147.

Nash went around the Royal Cinque ports course in 76 and 72, while Torrance too 73 and 74. They will play the tie by mutual consent at Hoylake next week.

Nash was not at his best form during the first round when rain and high wind made control of the ball very difficult, but under hot sunshine the afternoon he played perfect golf, going out in 33, including two holes. He was three over four for his first twelve holes, and though he had strokes on the greens for the rest three he made a fighting finish with three fives.

OMERVILLE HAS 154

Ross "Sandy" Somerville, London, Ont., United States amateur champion, took 82 on the first round but revealed the afternoon sun to come back with a fine 72 for the second round. He is brilliant golfer, but the load of the first round which he could not overcome.

Neither Somerville nor Nash could go going yesterday, George Torrance at Sandwich and both finished at the bottom of the list for the Royal St. George's Vase which John Beck, Sandwich won.

SCHMELING GOES DOWN FOR NINE COUNT

After Trout Land 235-pound Halibut

Wilbur Dawson and Party at Prince Rupert Set Whole Town Talking

No Professional Fishermen Have Taken Bigger Fish in Years

Wilbur Dawson, well-known as a fisherman here and formerly of the staff of the Bank of Montreal in this city, but now assistant manager at Prince Rupert, was one of a party which went trout fishing and caught a halibut which weighed 235 pounds. They managed to land their big fish and exhibit it on the streets of Prince Rupert. As a result everyone had to believe their story.

The following account of the big catch is given in The Prince Rupert News:

"The charm of the unexpected is one of the characteristics of this north country. And the variety of incidents on fishing trips. Notwithstanding all their bounce down south about their fishing, it is seldom that trout fishermen return home with a 200-pound halibut. But that's what happened yesterday. Capt. Paul Armour was out with the Salvage Princess over the week-end having on board F. A. McCallum, W. O. Fulton, Eddie Clapp, Walter Hume, Basil Baillie, C. W. Dawson, Pete Sunderland and Dr. Kvale.

"They went to Red Bluff, Pitt Island, Inlet and Baker Inlet to try for trout. The water was high and the weather was fine. And what is a fishing trip without fish? So the fresh water yielded nothing; the fishers tried the salt. They put down a few hooks over the right side of the boat and waited. On pulling up the line, there was a dogfish, a starfish and two or three other minor organisms when all at once a mighty tail flapped out of the water with a splash, and another splash and more splashing. The tail disappeared into the depths and the wicker stricken eyes of a halibut appeared as if in mute protest against the desecration of its Sabbath peace. As the fish's head broke water, the real business of the trip developed. It was a whale of a halibut, weighing about 235 pounds, and these trout fishermen were hooked on the strength of a halibut's tail. Getting him on board without the usual tackle proved some job and when doused the big fish weighed 235 pounds.

"Yesterday it was on view in the windows of the Sterling Market."

Mr. McCallum, who is mentioned in the story, was formerly accountant in the Victoria branch of the Bank of Montreal, and is now manager at Prince Rupert.

HEAR EVIDENCE IN CAGE PROBE

Investigation Opens at Edmonton in Durant-Grads Basketball Series

Edmonton, June 12.—A committee of five arrived in the city yesterday to investigate the disturbances surrounding the defeat of Edmonton Grads by the Durant, Okla., girls' basketball team last week. They will collect all evidence with the possibility of submitting it to United States basketball authorities.

Saturday night charges made by Coach S. F. Babb of the Durant team, were aired, several witnesses substantiating Babb's report that abusive language had been used in reference to his basketball players following the hectic final game, the third straight victory of the Durant basketball team over the famous Grads.

Babb is reported to have intimated that he would report the incident to the U.S. basketball authorities, suggesting no more U.S. teams journey to Edmonton to face the Grads until proper treatment and police protection is assured.

Witnesses said in one instance that the language used toward the girls on the floor after the game was abusive, but none could recall hearing "dirty language."

The committee hearing the evidence, include W. W. McBain, president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce; C. R. Morrison, chairman of the Service Club Council; W. T. Tait, president of the Alberta Basketball Association; Sergeant John Leslie, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada; and Alderman H. D. Finlay, who represented the city.

Mrs. B. J. Foster, president of the Women's Athletic Federation in Canada, said she heard some women, on the floor after the game, use abusive language.

"I took a group of Edmonton girls to another city and they received the same language which the Durant girls received here from that woman. I would call it abusive," she said.

Mrs. Foster said she spoke to one of the Durant girls after the incident, stating that the remarks did not indicate the city's attitude toward the visiting team. The Durant girl replied, "Well, thank you. We get used to that."

Percy Edmonds finished in second place with a gross 77 and a net 69. Edmonds' 77 was the best gross score turned in during the day.

The presentation of prizes will take place at a supper in the club quarters on Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

ST. ANDREWS TAKE HONORS

Defeat Nanaimo 3 to 1 to Capture Pacific Coast League Soccer Championship

Vancouver, June 12.—By defeating Nanaimo City 3 to 1 in the second game of the Coast League soccer championship final yesterday, St. Andrews won the Con Jones Memorial Trophy before a crowd of 1,500. Saints won the first game Friday night, 3 to 1.

Nanaimo made a switch in their team, English playing outside right in place of White and Steel occupying the left back position. Graham White was late in arriving and did not turn out for St. Andrews until after half time, Logan Murray being at inside left.

In the first few minutes, Murray put on a wonderful screw shot that had Blewitt beaten only to hit the bar and bounce over. After thirty-three minutes, Manson tricked two men and shot a fine goal from twenty yards range.

TIE SCORE

Two minutes later, Sandford placed a corner kick finely for English to equalize for Nanaimo with a shot that hit the underside of the bar, before going into the goal before half-time. McNeil laid Steel out with a vigorous charge and was cautioned. At the interval the score was 1 to 1.

After eleven minutes, Collett, White and Murray passed and re-passed right through the Nanaimo defence for Murray to put Saints ahead again with the prettiest goal of the match. Nanaimo pressed heavily but Rabbit made several fine saves. In twenty-three minutes Collett scored a third goal for St. Andrews.

Two minutes from time, loose defence left Green unwatched close to goal as Sandford centred and the inside right easily beat Rabbit from close range. The teams were tied 3 to 3.

Nanaimo—Blewitt, Boyd, Steel, McGregor, Conti, R. Grey, English, Green, Watchorn, Knight and Sandford.

St. Andrews—Rabbit, Bruce, Cummings, McNeil, Morley, Alcock, Stephen, Manson, Collett, Murray and Munroe. Substitute, White.

Referee, J. Armstrong.

Chapman made four hits in six times up to add twelve points to his average; Martin gained eleven points with five hits in nine trips to the plate, while Simmons, making four hits in a row in the first game, gained only three points when he failed to connect in five tries in the second. Last-minute Hoist Brings Wheat Rise Of About One Cent

Winnipeg, June 12.—Undetermined strength in markets to the south gave a last-minute hoist to wheat prices in the wheat pit here today. Selling along for the greater part of the session at levels a fraction higher than Saturday's close, wheat closed in active trade 1 to 1/2 cent higher.

July finished at 65 1/2, October at 67 1/2, and December at 68 1/2 to 1/4. Futures early took their lead from Chicago fluctuating widely and rapidly throughout the session. Quotations presented a ragged appearance and the market was highly nervous for the greater part of the session.

It was believed 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been taken by foreign importers over the week-end. This support upheld values at times. Trading generally was active.

More than half of last week's total shipments of wheat came from North America, almost entirely Canadian varieties.

Cash grain trading was quiet, spreads closing almost where they left off Saturday. Coarse grains traded fairly lively throughout, though chiefly influenced by the action of wheat futures. Flax was the feature in that market.

Dorothy Tries to Identify Real Love—How Propinquity and Companionship Are Often Followed by Marriages That Cannot Stand the Strain of Daily Living Together

A CORRESPONDENT asks: Is a man's love for a woman greater than a woman's love for a man? Does a woman forget a disappointment in love sooner than a man does?

The ability to love depends on individual temperament and character, not on sex. There are men who are great lovers and women who have no more capacity for love than a frigid. Conversely, there are women who are all heart and men who never have a thrill for any one except themselves. Not every one is any more capable of experiencing the grand passion than they are of singing in grand opera. To be able to really love is a gift of Nature.

Most of us never know what real love is. It forever remains outside the range of our experience. We have a mild and temporary sex attraction to some individual. Or we are the victims of propinquity. Or we find some man or woman an agreeable companion and form a lukewarm attachment to him or her, and this feeling we call by name of Love, but it is no more the genuine article than a synthetic diamond is the real jewel.

The reason that so many husbands and wives bicker and quarrel and find it impossible to overlook each other's little faults and foibles; the reason they grow peevish and fretful over the restrictions of marriage; the reason they grow tired of each other so soon and cast roving eyes after every attractive stranger; the reason they break up their homes on the slightest pretext, is because they were not really in love when they married. They mistook a passing fancy for an enduring passion, and their flimsy affection was not strong enough to stand the strain of daily living together.

They knew nothing of that love that is great enough and strong enough to endure all things and forgive all things; that counts sacrifice and toll sweet when done for a beloved one; that fills the souls of a man and woman so completely that there is no room in them for any other lesser feeling, and that binds a husband and wife so closely together that neither has any life without the other.

Whether it is a blessing or a curse to be able to love passionately is a matter of argument. Undoubtedly the great lovers have their moments of ecstasy that of lesser passions never know, but also they have their hours of despair that we escape, and so perhaps it is just as well that most of us are satisfied with our milk and watery love that we can take or leave or exchange for another at will and forget as easily as we do a passing cloud.

As regards this common, or garden, variety of love, I think that as between youths and maidens that the man generally loves more at the beginning of a marriage than the woman does, and the woman loves more than the man does as the years go by.

In this country, at least, where few girls have dowries or fortunes of their own, there is no reason for a man to marry a girl except because he loves her. He gives up his freedom, he assumes the burden of her support, solely for sentimental reasons. But girls marry for many reasons besides love. They marry because they don't want to be old maids, because they want a home of their own, because they want children, because they want some vital interest in life, because they are tired of earning their bread and butter and want to shift the burden on to some man's shoulders.

If you could see into the hearts of the average bride and bridegroom, you would see that he is generally far more romantically in love than she, but ten years afterward the chances are that she would be the one who was doing the kissing and he the one who was suffering himself to be kissed. Nor is this strange, for in marriage all the circumstances of life tend to separate a man from his wife while they work to draw her to him.

Also, it is true that love makes up but a small part of a man's life. His chief concern is with his business, his career. He has a thousand interests that absorb him and keep him from dwelling upon the state of his affections, whereas a woman, or at least the average domestic woman, has her attention focused upon her heart throbs.

Not only her happiness, but her physical wellbeing depends upon her being in love with her husband and keeping him in love with her, for well she knows that when her husband ceases to care for her he becomes the prey of the vamps and the bomb is placed under the doorstep that will eventually blow up her home and wreck her and her children.

That wives love their husbands better than their husbands do them is abundantly proven by the fact that thousands of women cling to men who beat them and mistreat them; thousands of wives forgive faithless husbands and wash their scores out with their tears and go on waiting and hoping for their return until they finally do come back to them old and broken; thousands of wives wait outside of penitentiary doors for the husbands who have disgraced them and take them back and hide their shame even from their own eyes. But you seldom or never hear of men who condone the sins of drunken or faithless or jaundiced wives.

And it is only women who can go on loving the unlovable, being true to the false, grieving over the loss of a man that they should thank their stars for getting rid of. And that is a talent peculiar to the female sex that their bad fairy wished on them.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Your Own Garden

During my visit to England in 1930, a group of children in Stratford-on-Avon asked me to go with them to the garden of their school, to look at a flower garden which they had made. When I saw it I told them it was very pretty.

English girls with flowers from their school garden

some kind this year. It is healthful and interesting to work with the soil, and to watch the little plants "come up."

May is a better month than June for planting many kinds of seeds; but it is not too late even now to start a garden. There are vegetables which will grow well when seeds are planted in June. If you would like facts about vegetables or flowers, read the directions on the packages. I planted some golden bantam corn last month, and hope to have a small "crop" this summer. Sweet corn cooked and eaten within an hour or two after it is picked seems to taste better than corn bought from a store.

I am interested in my garden this year, but my interest is not nearly so keen as it was long years ago when, at the age of eight, I planted a few handfuls of common navy beans. I could hardly wait for them to come up. Once or twice I dug down in a hill to see whether the seeds had started to sprout.

At last the bean plants came into view. On dry days I gave them water; and on at least one day I lay down on the sandy soil, beneath a broiling sun, and gazed at the plants as closely as I could, trying to see them grow!

"We call it Uncle Ray's garden," said one of them. "Why did you give it that name?" I asked. "It was like this," they explained. "After you visited our school two years ago, we were sorry that you had not seen any flowers around the yard. So we went to Mr. Glover (principal of the school) and asked him if he would let us make a garden. He told us that we could try, but that the soil was not very good. We worked on the ground and planted seeds, and this is what we have now."

The English are extremely fond of flowers. No matter how little wealth a family may have, or how small the plot of ground on which the house is built, it is likely that there will be flowers outside the doorway. We can almost say that there are "flowers everywhere" in England. Whether it is for flowers or for vegetables, I hope you have a garden of

Three Ships Here To-day For Lumber

IXION and Janeta Loading This Morning; Romney Expected Late This Evening

Passenger Liners and Freighters Will Keep Local Docks Busy During Week

To-day saw three British ships at Ogden Point piers, loading lumber cargoes, two for the United Kingdom and the third for the Orient. It started a busy period at the ocean piers as a large number of passenger liners and freight ships will dock here during the next ten days.

The Ss. Janeta docked at Ogden Point late Saturday night and commenced loading 550,000 feet of lumber this morning. She will get away for sea to-morrow about noon. The Ss. Romney will leave Chemainus at 8 o'clock this evening for Victoria and will dock about midnight. She will commence loading 900,000 feet of lumber to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock. Equimault will spend two hours here in the late afternoon on her way from Changhai, will clear for Vancouver to-morrow.

King Brothers are the agents for the Janeta and the Romney. Thursday afternoon or Friday morning will see the arrival here of the liner Monowal from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu, with a good list of passengers and a heavy general cargo. She is taking the place for one trip of the Ms. Aorangi, which is now in drydock for annual overhaul at Sydney. The Monowal is regularly on the San Francisco-Australia run.

Two deep-sea passenger liners will be in port Saturday. In the morning, the Ss. Empress of Canada, now in drydock at Ogden Point, will be here from New York, the Panama and San Francisco. The Ss. Empress of Canada, now in drydock at Ogden Point, will be here from New York, the Panama and San Francisco. The Ss. Empress of Canada, now in drydock at Ogden Point, will be here from New York, the Panama and San Francisco.

Bound for Victoria, the liners Empress of Russia, of the Canadian Pacific fleet, and the President Jefferson, of the American Mail Line, sailed from Los Angeles and San Francisco, California, on Saturday. Both ships are expected here next Monday. While on the coast this voyage the Empress of Russia will be drydocked for her annual summer overhaul at Esquimalt.

Saturday will also see the arrival here of the Furmoss motorship Pacific Enterprise from Seattle, in the United Kingdom by the Panama Canal and San Francisco. She is to-day at Los Angeles harbor.

When the Ss. President Taft sailed for the Orient Saturday for the Orient she bid adieu to this port, as at Manila in a few weeks she will trade routes with the Dollar liner President Jackson, which will be placed in the Victoria-Seattle-Orient run of the American Mail Line. The Jackson has been on the route between New York, California and the Orient. The Jackson is due here in about six weeks.

Dr. A. E. Stubb, formerly state director of health at Seattle, sailed aboard the President Taft as ship's doctor on Saturday. He will return to the President Jackson.

Seventeen-year-old Dan Martin, son of Governor Clarence D. Martin, of the state of Washington, went aboard the Taft as a junior cadet. He will make the round trip to the Orient, returning by the President Jackson. Young Martin has just graduated from the Culver Military College, but now thinks he may like the life of a sailor instead of that of a soldier. He hopes to make up his mind on the long voyage to Manila and return.

ON ALASKA RUN
Capt. Mackenzie came to Canada in 1884, and on the Great Lakes worked there for two years. Then he came west to Astoria and joined his brothers, William and Simon. That year they built the schooner Venture, and in 1887 constructed the steamer Dolphin. When the latter craft was sold, Duncan and William joined the steamer Union on the Alaska run and remained with her a year, returning then through British Columbia for a visit to Scotland.

WENT SEALING
In 1889 they returned to Vancouver, joining Capt. Simon. P. Mackenzie, in 1890 they built the tug Clyde, which they operated. Late the same year they laid the keel of the sailing schooner Elia Edward, and went sealing with one of the new-fangled seal nets which had proved very successful. But the revenue cutters and warships of all interested nations were too active, and they returned with but a scant half hundred skins, but with their vessel still in their own possession. Other Vancouver sealers were not so fortunate and were arrested. One reason of the safe return of the three adventurous young Scotsmen was that they had painted their boat a true battleship grey, which is hard to see in North Pacific fog and haze. It was still harder to see when they used dry wood as fuel in place of smoke-producing coal.

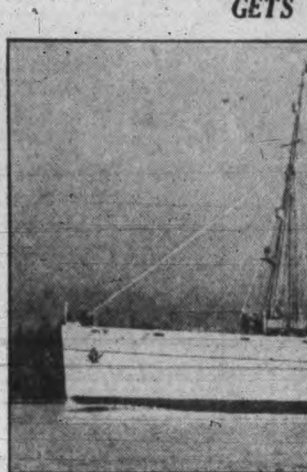

TREASURE HUNTING
On their return they found a great demand for a passenger service between Vancouver, Stevenson and Ladner, and they stayed in that trade until 1892 when they were chartered by a Vancouver banker to go to Cocos Island and dig for treasure. An American millionaire named Winchester had previously made a hunt at the island, but failed to find anything. The map he used came into the hands of a nephew, Dr. Winchester of Santa Barbara, and it was he who interested the Vancouver banker. The treasure party left here in 1892 on the ship Edward, and spent sixty-four days digging hard but unsuccessfully.

After this undertaking had come to an end the three brothers returned north and persuaded the Vancouver

Veteran Skipper Leaves Sea To-day

Capt. Duncan Mackenzie, Well-known in Victoria, Retires After Colorful Career

Prepares For Trip To Native Scotland

He and His Brothers Built Many Boats and Started Service to Alaska Ports

After serving the sea for more than fifty years, Capt. Duncan Mackenzie "swallowed his anchor" to-day at his Vancouver home and prepared for a trip to his native Scotland, accompanied by his wife. He will return to British Columbia in a few months and make his home.

Capt. Mackenzie is well known to the shipping fraternity of Victoria. He was master of the Canadian National steamers Prince Rupert and Prince George, which used to come into Victoria in regular service. A few years ago he was exclusive Coast pilot for the Canadian National freighters, connecting Victoria with the St. Lawrence River. Of recent years he has been a government pilot and often came to Victoria to board a ship off Race Rocks and take her to Vancouver.

Capt. Mackenzie is seventy years old to-day, having been born in Kiltlarry, Inverness-shire, on June 12, 1863. During his colorful career the skipper has been treasure hunter, fisherman, pilot, master mariner and shipping operator on the Coast. After his arrival on the Coast in the late eighties, he with his brothers, Capt. William and the late Capt. Simon, participated in much pioneer steamboating, fishing and general maritime activity. They built schooners and steam vessels, initiated new freight and passenger lines, went sealing and prospected then unknown fishing grounds.

NORAH SAILS FOR SKAGWAY

Takes Large List of Passengers, Including Many Tourists

Vancouver, June 12.—Taking a capacity list of passengers, including many tourists, the Ss. Princess Norah, Capt. William G. Palmer, sailed from here Saturday evening for Skagway and other ports in the land of the midnight sun. A number of the passengers plan trips by rail over the White Pass and will return south with the Norah.

It was the last trip of the Princess Norah for this season. She has been in the Alaska service since October. On Friday evening the Princess Louise will make her first sailing of the year, followed on June 23 by the Princess Charlotte. There will be a sailing each Saturday evening from Vancouver until the end of August. The Princess Alice will not operate this season.

Among the passengers aboard Saturday evening was the Mother-General of the Sisters of St. Ann, from Lachine, near Montreal, who will inspect the hospitals and schools of the institution in Alaska and the Yukon. She will go to Dawson and then continue down the Yukon River to the sisters' school for Eskimo children at Holy Cross. She was in Victoria two weeks ago for the St. Ann's celebrations and will go there for a visit on her return from the north before starting back to Montreal.

Other passengers were: Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Ford of San Francisco, Dr. L. L. Walsh, Dr. L. L. Stanley and Fred Suhr, vic officials of Suaslot, California, on a pleasure cruise to Skagway; Miss V. Shattuck of the Prudence Penny Drycleaning Co. of Seattle; Post-Intelligencer; J. G. Blanchard, general passenger agent of the White Pass and Yukon Railway, going into the Yukon for the summer; Dr. L. LePage and A. W. Chalmers of Victoria; W. W. Stowaways In Stunt Plane

Young Boys Get Thrills, and Also Scores, in Machine At Kansas City.

Kansas City, June 12.—Charles Kuehne, seventeen, and Lyle Sledge, eighteen, got a special thrill out of the American Air Race Association meet which thrilled hundreds here yesterday.

They stowed away in the huge trimotored stunt ship of George Burrell of Chicago. Burrell, ignorant of their presence, looped, rolled and dived with vigor.

Waite-lipped, the boys were captured by police when they staggered from the plane as it landed. The police decided the boys had been punished enough in the air.
